

Silver Mediterranean Fan Palm

Chamerops humilis 'cerifera'

The Silver Mediterranean Fan Palm is a cultivar that is slightly more cold hardy than the regular Mediterranean Fan Palm. It is identified by its black spines and silver-blue fronds. During extended periods of rain, the fronds may lose their silver coating.

Their slow rate of growth makes them well suited for container plantings. Silver meds are also well suited as specimen palms and in any water wise planting.

The skirt of dead leaves below the crown should be trimmed in order to show the fibrous trunk and the sculptural look of this palm.
